one of them to a friend about to start in business, "pay as much for advertising, as you do for rent and you will succeed." There is more in this than would occur to some at first thought. Take Forepaugh for illustration. No matter how great the crowd, his expenses are not increased. Suppose, then, that he seated only 3,000 at Bur ington and cleared a fair profit over expenses. Every additional ticket sold would be clear gain. Then if instead of seating 3,000, he seave 6,000 persons, he makes a magnificent profit it is that extra 100 per cent of receipts that the shrewd forepaugh has in his mind when he sends his advance segnits to the newspapers and makes heavy advertising contracts.

Take the case of a merchant. His rent, clerk hire, insurance and other expenses, are nearly as much upon sales of double that amount. The sagacious merchant appreciate, this, and he concludes that it will pay a by posit to make the extra sales of $55,000, and so he calls to his aid that powerful leverage, the press, and the people in after years talk of his "good luck" in amassing wealth. The "luck" lay in his liberal advertising and is represented by his a ivertising bila. The business man who desires to succeed will do see the counsel of some of the world's heaviest advertisers.

A Searcity of Water and a Want of Grass—The Conatry Completely Barned Up—Jules France—English Finances.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

London, A dispatch to The Geneva correspondent of the Times says Switzerland is beginning to suffer seriously from drout, which, except for a few showers, has lasted two months. The grass is completely burned up, and there is no chance of making the usual second hay crop. There is great scarcity of water in most parts of the country. In the mountainous pastures in several cantons and in Savoy beasts are persising for lack of water and from heat. Whole herds have perished in the canton of Schwyz, in Vandois Alps and in the valleys of the Jura. If the drouth continues a week or two longer it will go far to neutralize the effect of excellent grain crops and vintage, which bids fair to be one of the counts, a mistance of the death of the street, but all efforts to cantrol him were used to be country by scient, the street of the country by the street of the country by the street of the death of Tom Mitchell, colored, find from the evidence and the country in the evidence and the country in the

A DOCTOR OF DIVINITY FROM GEORGIA.

Yesterday I visited the Methodist free Conference at the memorial hall on Farrengdon street. What a contrast! This very spot was once occupied by the famous Fleet prison, so pleasantly and painfully pictured in Dicken's "Little Dorrit." Now, it is a sort of arcadia for faith-freedom! A peculiar building, and a peculiar place. The lecture hall is almost at the roof of the refectory on the first floor. Soul subjects on high, and stomach one's below. Wise architect! In England, a dinner is the preinde or the past time of all undertakings, and I verily believe an Englishman's heaven it largely composed of a larder reeking with the odors of roast beef, and, like Ben Jonson, "are." I suppose we cannot live on bread...ne, even in a free conference and with a large appetite. Glancing at the menu of the refectory and the programme of the pious ones, I boldly mounted many steps towards the mansion in the skies. Typical are the stories of the path to heaven; typical are the benches of the lecture hall to the seats in hades; typical are the tongues of the clashing and superfluously numerous secretaries of Babel; typical are the pastore present of men of "light and leading," as poor old worm-eaten Beaconsfield would put it, and tip-ical are the wants of the oorter by the door. I listened—a rare art in some men and most women—and I heard much that was Greek to a heathen special correspondent of many crimes.

Out and around in Falcon square there are evidences of the gifts of the wise men of the east, but solely in the shape of China's silks and Japan's bright wares. It is a square given to commerce, yet is teeming with theological history of the past.

From out the window of this little room where "The Wesley Memorial Volume" was conceived in purity of purpose, in appropriateness of design and in excellence of object, you can see the approaches to Amen Corner and St. Martins LeGrande; to the localities of the Black-friars and the White-friars of old. It is a London square sui generis. It is almost lost in London. "How came you to select this hote! doctor." said your correspondent. "Weil, it is an old Wesleyan stopping place, and it is plain, quiet and in the center of London proper, almost;" said the doctor. "I can thick quietly here, and I shall never forget my moroing's inspiration on September 5 1878." Perhys I should add that when

Her name is Minerva Glenn, and her case is a sad one. Until about twe weeks ago she lived in Milton county, the companion of a husband who has shown himself worse than a brute. Several years ago they were married and three children was born to them, and until rescently they moved along smoothly and pleasantly. Not long ago 8. B. Glenn, the man who called himself the husband of the trusting woman and the father of the loving children, began to lose interest in his home and absented himself. At first the wife grew restless and impatient at his absence, but finally became accustomed to the neglect, though by no means pleased with it, for she loved the man to whom she had given her hand and heart. One week ago last Sunday Glenn disappeared from his neighborhood, and in a few days it was rumored that he, in company with a Miss Kate Clark, had skipped for a country in which they were unknown. The absence of the girl in question strengthened the suspicion until finally the deserted wife was forced to believe the story. After diligent inquiry she ascertained that her husband and his companion had came in the direction of Atlanta and with a view to overtaking and if possible, reclaiming him. Mrs Glenn sold what little she had, and with her children began the pursuit of her unworthy husband. A few days ago she reached Atlanta but her fund was expended and she was unable to go further in her search. In a strange town, burdened with three heipiess children and urprotected by money or friends her condition was truly alarming, but with a fortitude worthy of emulation she set about providing for her helpless little ones. After wandering over the city, too proud to beg and too honest to steal, she found the old open hur, near the rolling mill, on Marietta street, and there she made her home, without a piece of furniture or a morsel of food. The day after she entered the hut her presence sind condition were discovered by some of the rolling mill men who are now spending their time leisurely looking around. The woman's destitute

A great many people have adopted, as their rule of general conduct, the reasoning of the man who said that he never became a priest because he was afraid he might want at sometime to marry and he never married because he was airaid he might sometime want to become a priest to the said of their days in a fruitless effort, without accomplishing anything in particular, because they are always expecting to do something else. They can fining in particular, because they are always expecting to do something else. They can hardly be called blunderers, yet their lives are eminently great mistakes. It is a blunder for any person to go on making their purchases of things which they require from merchants whose chief stock in trade consists of shoddy articles, for which they ask wastly more than their real values, when it is known that there are other merchants in the same neighborhood who relia setter class of goods at a much fairer price—a class of goods which are not worn out with age by having remained on the shelves of some bankrupt concern. It is simply a mistake, bankrupt concern. It is simply a mistake, when buyers, acting ignorantly as to the true state of facts, allow themselves to be thus imposed upon, which is rectified as soon as they have obtained the proper information, and act thereon.

No one will ever be guilty of committe

No one will ever be guilty of committing a blunder if they visit the establishment of W. H. Brotherion, on the corner of Whitchall and Mitchell streets, for the purpose of laying in a supply of such articles as he keeps, for here is found the biggest line, the most fashionable line and the best line of dress goods, suitings, etc., that are found in in any dry goods establishment in the south. It is a mistake to suppose that shoddy articles will be put on you at a price which is more than they are worth, for such articles find no place in this emporium. Purchasers who desire this class of goods, and are willing to pay big prices for them must go elsewhere.

It is true he has a department where articles are sold fearfully below their real value, but they are not "shoddy" nor from bankrupt sales, nor from old, wornout stocks; they are found on his five, ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five and fifty cents. Ladies, Gents, Misses and Chil-teen, twenty, twenty-five and fifty cents counters, and they consist of articles useful as well as ornamental that are needed in every household; articles used for culinary playthings for the children, marbles, hammers, hatchets and many other things. Hairornsments, bracelets and cheap jewelry, cuff buttons and shirt studs, an array the like of which was never before seen, and cannot be purchased at such figures elsewhere.

The clothing department, men and children's suits, are found great attractions, and a genuine reduction in spring and summer clothing. There is an immense stock in this line of men, boys and youth's 'clothing. Very desirable goods that must be sold cheap. An examination will convince the most skeptical that they can get bargains. Of the dress goods department there are marvelous things to be said. Plain all-wool buntings (black) at 15 cents a yard; brocade lace buntings, fancy brocades, crepe cloths, black cashmeres, from 25 cents up; plain and striped summer silks at 50 cents per yard; black satins at the same price, and colored satins for a dollar that are dirt cheap; Victoria and bishop lawns, colored lawns, check nainsook, fron 10 cents to 50 cents, in every variety and style remarkao bly low.

There can be no question that in the lace department can be found the biggest line short of New York city. Kid. lisle thread gloves, hosiery, ties and ribbons in the greatest abundance, and of every style and description, and the most complete and perfect assortment in the city.

Brotherton is at the head and front of the retail trade in his line—he has the finest place and the largest stock of goods and sells more of them than any competitor. He is constantly adding novelties to his stock, and keeps up to the fullest requirement of all that his customers may possibly need, both in style and fancy goods. If our readers in the search of any article which is likely to be found in a dry goods emporium, fail to make the examination of his stock at the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell street, they will certainly make both a blunder and a mistake which will cause them to have many regrets in the future when they have discovered their lost convertinity. And we shall be trul He has just received an enormous stock of new goods in every department and will offer during the week great bargains in both a blunder and a mistake which will cause them to have many regrets in the future when they have discovered their lost opportunity. And we shall be truly sorry for the poor unfortunates who, in their rashness, knowing better, fail to do better by neglecting the chance now offered them. If ever regrets come to them it will not be a passing emotion, but will be a question which can be represented to them by the dollars and cents which they will lose.
